

Editor-in-Chief
Surgeon Captain J E Smith RN
jasonsmith@nhs.net

Officer in Charge, INM
Captain D Follington RN

Associate Editors
Surgeon Commander R Heames RN
Surgeon Commander A Lambert RN
Surgeon Commander D Gay RN
Surgeon Commander J Matthews RN
Surgeon Commander A Mellor RN
Surgeon Lieutenant Commander M O'Shea RN
Surgeon Lieutenant Commander J Penn-Barwell RN
Surgeon Commander D McMenamin RN

Assistant Editors
Surgeon Commander (D) Brian Smith RN
Surgeon Lieutenant Commander I Edgar RN
Surgeon Lieutenant Commander E Hulse RN
Lieutenant Commander J Smithson RN
Lieutenant Commander A Glendinning QARNNS
Major A Wood RMR

Treasurer
Lieutenant Commander (Rtd) M Trasler RN
mark.trasler373@mod.uk

Editorial Assistant
Mrs S Beames
susan.beames124@mod.uk

Proof Reading
Mrs J Wickenden

Subscription information
For details on how to subscribe, institutional pricing and payment methods contact
NAVYINM-CSCONJRNMS@mod.uk
Tel: +44 (0)2392 768102

Surg Capt Jason Smith, Editor in Chief

Surgeon Captain Jason Smith joined the Royal Navy and qualified in medicine from Newcastle University in 1992. He was appointed as a consultant in emergency medicine at Derriford Hospital, Plymouth in 2005.

He is currently the Defence Professor of Emergency Medicine at the Academic Department of Military Emergency Medicine, Royal Centre for Defence Medicine, Birmingham. He was also appointed Royal College of Emergency Medicine Professor in 2013, and is an Honorary Professor at Plymouth University Peninsula Schools of Medicine and Dentistry.

He assumed the role of Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of the Royal Naval Medical Service in December 2015. He is also a Decision Editor for the Emergency Medicine Journal, and an Associate Editor for the Journal of the RAMC and the journal Trauma.

jasonsmith@nhs.net

Surg Cdr Richard Heames, Associate Editor

Joining the Royal Navy in 1990, Richard Heames worked at RNH Stonehouse before deploying to the Adriatic and West Indies. Training in anaesthetics, he saw service in RFA ARGUS for OP TELIC 1 and in 2005 was promoted to Surg Cdr as a consultant anaesthetist at Southampton General Hospital with an interest in major general anaesthesia. Operational tours continued in both HM Ships ARK ROYAL & ILLUSTRIOUS and in RFA FORT VICTORIA for counter-piracy operations. In 2012 he was appointed as the Clinical Director for Role 2 Afloat, commanding deployed medical teams in HMS OCEAN and RFA Bay Class ships. Three years as the Consultant Advisor in Anaesthetics to MDG(N) ended with selection to Command DMG(SW) in 2017.

DMGSW-HQ-CO@mod.uk

Surg Cdr Tony Lambert, Associate Editor

Surg Cdr Lambert is an old-fashioned general surgeon who had a broad surgical training and maintains a broad surgical practice. He loves teaching and lecturing and is able to do so from his experiences on military deployments. He hung up his rugby boots after an injury curtailed his playing days but he continues to coach Devonport Services Colts and the Plymouth and Exeter Medical Students. He organises the annual Medics Rugby Challenge in Plymouth and enjoys a beer!

anthony.lambert@nhs.net

saddadz@live.co.uk

07986 992080

Surg Cdr Adrian Mellor, Associate Editor

Surg Cdr Adrian Mellor is a consultant cardiothoracic anaesthetist working at James Cook University Hospital in Middlesbrough as part of DMG(N). He qualified from Leeds University in 1990 and has spent time deployed on submarines, aircraft carriers, destroyers and in field hospitals in Iraq and Afghanistan. His research interests include thoracic trauma and adaptation to hypoxia. He was awarded a Medical Doctorate by Newcastle university in 2015 and is a visiting Professor at Leeds Beckett University Carnegie Research Institute.

dramellor@aol.com

Surg Lt Cdr Jowan Penn-Barwell, Associate Editor

Surg Lt Cdr Jowan Penn-Barwell is an Orthopaedic Trauma surgeon proud of his service in 3 Commando Brigade. He has written and lectured extensively on open fracture infection, outcomes after lower limb injury, measuring combat casualty system performance and ballistics. He always keen to place current thinking in the context of historical military medicine.

Jowanpb@me.com

Surg Lt Cdr Matt O'Shea, Associate Editor

Surg Lt Cdr Matt O'Shea is a Specialty Registrar in Infectious Diseases and Medical Microbiology currently completing training in the West Midlands. He qualified from Birmingham Medical School in 2003 having already undertaken a BSc in Biochemistry (Birmingham, UK) and an intercalating MPhil in Infection (Naval Health Research Center, San Diego, USA). His GDMO time was spent as the MO aboard HMS VANGUARD, after which he did medical jobs in the West Midlands before completing the DTM&H (Liverpool, UK) and then starting specialty training. He has undertaken operational tours during Op HERRICK and Op GRITROCK. He is research active, having completed a DPhil as a Wellcome Trust Research Training Fellow in the immunology of Mycobacterium tuberculosis (M.tb) infection (Jenner Institute and Corpus Christi College, Oxford). He is an honorary clinical lecturer at the Institute of Microbiology and Infection (University of Birmingham) where he leads a research group focused on TB immunology, the influence of helminth co-infections and novel immunotherapeutics against M.tb. He is also the Inaugural Lecturer in Defence Pathology. He has been a recipient of the Errol-Eldridge Prize (2010) and the Gilbert Blane Medal (2017). He has been on the editorial staff for the JRNMS (Medicine) since 2013.

m.k.oshea@doctors.org.uk

Lt Cdr Elspeth Hulse, Assistant Editor

Bio: I am an anaesthetist in the final year of training in South East Scotland. My research interests include lung injury secondary to organophosphorus poisoning and blast related injury to the lung and vascular system. I am a military lecturer in the Academic Department of Military Anaesthesia and Critical Care Medicine.

elspeth_uk@hotmail.com

Lt Cdr Mark Trasler MBE RN (Rtd). Subscription Secretary & Treasurer.

Joined the medical branch in 1971 as a JMA, later qualifying as Biomedical Scientist. He retired in 2010 as a Medical Services Officer. In between he served in numerous naval hospitals, warships, Commando Brigade Deployments, hospital ships (UGANDA and ARGUS), HQs (Surgeon General and RN), joint operational deployments and wars. He now resides in the former RN Hospital at Haslar.

mark.trasler373@mod.gov.uk

Jane Wickenden, Proof reading

Jane Wickenden has been Historic Collections Librarian at INM since 2001, despite being neither naval nor a medic (although one grandfather was a CPO, RN and one grandmother a nurse). After graduating from Oxford in 1983 she took a one-year librarianship diploma in Aberystwyth, and eventually moved back to Oxford, where she worked in a variety of university libraries for twelve years. She is a member of the Royal Navy Theatre Association, and as well as proof-reading and writing for the Journal has been an editor of short stories and a writer (under a different name) of novels for children.

jane.wickenden732@mod.gov.uk